ROSTER OF SUPERIOR MERIT

Jose Barros

Jose Barros was born and raised in Newark, NJ. He attended Ann Street School and is a proud graduate of East Side High School (class of 1990). He went on to attend Union County College, graduating with an Associate's Degree. He then continued his education at Kean University, from which he graduated with a Bachelor's Degree in Criminal Justice. While enrolled at Kean University, Jose took the civil service test for the Newark Police and was quickly called to join the department. He graduated from the Newark Police Academy and became a Newark police officer in 1996. Mr. Barros served our city for 26 years in various detailed units. He worked in the capacity of Police Officer, Detective, and Sergeant before retiring in 2022. Shortly after, Mr. Barros was invited by our current East Ward Councilman, Michael Silva, to join his team as Chief of Staff. He accepted and is currently serving in this role. Mr. Barros is also still serving as the President of the Portuguese American Police Association (PAPA), a position he's held since 2006. Additionally, he continues to serve the Ironbound community as the Vice President of Portugal Day Festivities every year.

As a lifelong Newark community member, Mr. Barros has continuously celebrated the diversity of our people, especially our youth. He has made lasting contributions to our community and society. As an alumnus of East Side High School, he has been involved in many initiatives that honor our values and represent our school in a positive fashion. Mr. Barros has accomplished many goals, but his greatest achievement is his family. Jose Barros married his wife, Lisette Santos Barros (ESHS class of 1993) in 1999. Together, they have two amazing sons, Zachary (ESHS class of 2020) and Jayden (ESHS class of 2027).

HONORARY ROSTER OF SUPERIOR MERIT

Michael Silva

Michael Silva, a dedicated public servant, was born on June 9, 1968, at St. Michael's Hospital in Newark, NJ. His roots run deep, stemming from his parents' brave journey as immigrants from Murtosa, Portugal, who arrived in 1946 and embraced their new life as naturalized U.S. citizens. His father, Alfredo Silva Jr., exemplified hard work as a proud member of Local 472 for 20 years until his passing in 2009. His mother, Maria V. Silva, dedicated over three decades to Western Electric before passing away in 2021. Michael's brother, Al Silva, is a successful real estate broker, while Councilman Silva proudly raises his son, Aiden Silva.

Growing up, Michael embraced the richness of his heritage as he split summers between Portugal and the Jersey Shore. Throughout his youth, he didn't just play; he excelled in Little League baseball and youth soccer, and he took on leadership as the president of the Boy Scouts' youth group at Our Lady of Fatima Church.

Michael's academic journey began at St. Casimir's Grammar School, where he graduated in 1982, and continued at St. Benedict's Prep High School, culminating in his graduation in 1986. He furthered his education at Union County College, earning an associate's degree while completing 130 credits in criminal justice at New Jersey City University (NJCU). His commitment to public safety was solidified when he graduated from the Police Academy. Serving as an Essex County Sheriff Officer from 1994 to 1996,and Newark Police Department from 1996 to 22021where he devoted 18 years as a community service detective, exemplifying his commitment to the community.

In 2022, Michael took another significant step in his civic engagement by becoming the East Ward Councilman. His journey reflects a steadfast dedication to public service, a commitment to family, and a passion for improving the lives of those in his community.

Happy Retirement!

ANDREW Teheran

Can you share some of your favorite memories from your early years teaching visual arts?

Some of my favorite memories from my early years teaching visual arts have nothing to do with paintbrushes or sketchbooks — they happened after the final bell. In the early 2000s, a group of students and I stayed after school almost every day to play Magic: The Gathering. What started as a casual way to unwind quickly became a daily ritual. It was more than just a game — it was community. I saw students open up, gain confidence, and find belonging, and I feel lucky to have shared that time with them. It reminded me that teaching goes far beyond the classroom — it's about showing up, being present, and building connections that last.

What motivated you to transition from visual arts to video production?

I started as a traditional visual arts teacher, but in 2004 there was a growing need for more CTE classes. Around that time, the administration discovered I was making experimental films in the Philadelphia arts scene, so they handed me a few video production sections. It was right when editing software became available on home computers. I'd never formally studied film or computers, so I taught myself as I went. What started as a few film classes grew into a full creative tech program, expanding into 2D and 3D animation, and even 3D printing. It was an exciting evolution, and I loved every moment of it.

After so many years of teaching, what's the proudest moment of your career in video production?

There have been many moments I'm proud of — from winning awards with students, to receiving honors like the Apple Distinguished Educator award in 2009, the 2021 Princeton Prize for Distinguished Secondary School Teaching, and the Ironbound Hero Award. But my proudest moment came when my student, Joao Tarouco, won Best Director at the Newark International Film Festival for our special effects short film The Flight of the Arrowhead. He didn't just win in the student category — he won in the general category, competing with filmmakers from around the world. Seeing his work recognized on that level was unforgettable.

If you had to pick one project or student that truly stuck with you, which one would it be and why?

The Flight of the Arrowhead is the project that will always stay with me. It was an ambitious special effects film that took five years to complete, and it brought together so many students over the years. Everything was built from scratch in the classroom — the script, acting, costumes, filming, editing, 3D animation, special effects, and even the soundtrack. None of us had all the answers at the start, but we learned together, step by step. It is an example of what students can do when they're given the space to create.

What do you hope your students took away from your classes?

I hope my students learned how to learn — how to push themselves creatively and explore media and ideas outside their comfort zones. More than anything, I hope they understood that the creative process itself is the goal — that growth, exploration, and curiosity are just as important as the final product.

Outside of work, what are some of your personal passions or hobbies that help you unwind?

I am an artist, which is an important aspect of my life. I work across various art forms and techniques, rather than specializing in a single area. I also co-host a podcast called Not All Podcasts Wear Capes, where we explore sci-fi, fantasy, and superhero films. My co-hosts are former students who are now in their 30s and 40s, which is a meaningful full-circle experience. I play A LOT of Dungeons & Dragons and other indie role-playing games — I guess storytelling and collaboration are just in my DNA. Outside of that, I love spending time with my wife and our two young boys, who keep things fun and full of surprises.

If you could direct a film about your career in video production, what genre would it be, and who would play you?

It would probably feel like a Wes Anderson film — a fast-paced comedy with quirky characters and just the right touch of melancholy. As for who would play me, that's something I've thought about over the years. My personal picks have ranged from Pedro Pascal to Toshiro Mifune to Denzel Washington. But if there were a poll, the winner would almost definitely be Robert Downey Jr. I've been compared to him constantly since the first Iron Man came out in 2009 — just last weekend at a D&D convention, someone brought it up again. I think it's less about how I look and more about my chaotic, slightly eccentric energy. Fair enough.

As you step into this new chapter of life, what's one thing you're excited to do that you never had time for while teaching?

Sleep.

How do you feel about retiring? What will you miss the most?

It's a weird feeling. I've been teaching for almost 30 years — my entire adult life. I'll certainly miss my colleagues and my students, but what weighs on me is the idea of no longer being immersed in the incredible diversity we have at East Side. In this country we are increasingly retreating into demographic bubbles and communicating behind computer screens. Here at East Side we have the gift of each other's presence, of different lived experiences. Sorry, I'm getting a bit deep, but it's something I think about.

VALEDICTORIAN

To my fellow graduates,

As we begin to take the next step into our lives, I am honored to be the one to address you as the valedictorian of the Class of 2025. To be able to graduate and speak to our class who I've witnessed overcome hardships, celebrate triumphs, and work to make an impact on our community is a privilege that I am honored and blessed to have. As we go down our separate paths in life and dive headfirst into the unknown, I would like to provide some words of encouragement as we go forward, and an important lesson that I learned through my time in East Side.

As you head forward, you will come across numerous people, new experiences, and life-changing opportunities, all of which may feel intimidating and scary. However, as we grow up and experience new things, make sure to stay true to yourselves. Grow as a person, but don't allow others to change your morals, beliefs, and who you are as a person. Work as hard as you can to improve your skills, follow your passion, and at the end of the day be able to stand strong and firmly on your personal values as you head through life. I wish you all the best as you go on to break through boundaries and follow your passions, and once again congratulations to the Class of 2025 all on this milestone moment of our lives!

Claudia Ferreira

SALUTATORIAN

Congratulations to us all!

As we begin to take the next step into our lives, I am honored to be the one to address you as the salutatorian of the Class of 2025. These past four years have been a rollercoaster. From freshman year with masks, to going back online, and coming back again, watching the World Cup in class, and much more. Each memory is significant and different for each one of us. Now, we're getting ready to leave and go our separate ways. Despite this, high school, especially East Side, is something we'll all reminisce on. In the future, we'll look back and think of the teachers that have inspired us or given us advice. We'll look back on the friendships we had. We'll think about all the mistakes and successes we have made and how it had let us to right now, here, graduating as class of 2025.

Yes, we are all going our own separate ways, but that doesn't mean we're all going to become strangers. Hold onto your friendships. Like Taylor Swift said, "Hold on to the memories they will hold on to you." Your future may be awaiting, but remember the lessons learned from the obstacles you faced and those that helped you get to where you are now. Congrats again to us all!

EAST SIDE

To the Class of 2025,

We cannot believe how quickly this year went by! From the challenges to the triumphs, it has been a privilege to witness the growth and resilience you have shown in your last year of high school. As you are now moving into this new chapter of your lives, do not take for granted all that you have been through to get here. You have made everyone around you so proud but most importantly, we hope that you are proud of yourself and the person you have become.

As you say goodbye to this chapter of your lives, carry with you the lessons learned, the friendships cherished, and the memories you have made. Embrace the future with open arms, knowing that the experiences you have shared will guide you through whatever challenges lie ahead. And as you now continue into the unknown, do not forget the incredible journey that brought you to this moment.

To the Class of 2025, may your dreams be limitless, your adventures be unforgettable, and your impact be immeasurable. Best of luck in all that lies ahead. Your journey is just beginning, and we are excited to see where it takes you. Always remember, you will forever be a part of East Side's legacy.

Once an East Sider, always an East Sider.

With love,

"I believe being a part of a team truly does create long-lasting friendships. When you spend most of your time with your teammates, you are bound to become close with them, especially in a sport like volleyball, where communication and chemistry are important in order to win a game. These past four years, I've not only grown as a player but as a person, surrounded by people who have become like family to me. The bond we've built isn't just about the sport; it's about trust, shared experiences, and knowing that no matter what, we have each other's backs. Those friendships don't just disappear after the season ends, they last a lifetime."

"I've learned many lessons while playing this sport, both with Eastside and on my own. After countless days of training and back-to-back games, you must keep pushing forward to succeed and if you don't, you'll get left behind. One major lesson I learned in baseball is the power of communication and teamwork. Without your team behind you, you have nowhere to go. Baseball is a team sport, and going in alone will never lead to success. But this game isn't just about winning; it's about facing your challenges mentally and physically and learning to leave the past behind. I've lost games and let those losses haunt me for weeks, which caused me to play at my worst. Over time, I learned to let go of those mistakes, focus on what's ahead and give every play my all. There's no room for lingering negative emotions. Holding onto failure only drags you down. Instead, learn from your mistakes and keep moving."

Love is Everywhere

Written By: Chloe Santos

Love knows no limits; it often hides in the most unexpected places, waiting to be found. I didn't always believe this, but I came to understand it during my Montclair College Writing 105 class. At East Side, we have the opportunity to take college courses through the Montclair program, and this class has been one of my favorites so far.

On that particular day, our assignment was to explore the rhetoric of an object in the room and explain it in detail. I got up from my seat and began to wander classroom 221, scanning the room for inspiration. I read the posters on the wall, glanced at the teacher's desk, but nothing really stood out to me.

Then, I found myself at the back of the room, standing in front of a small table. On it was a stack of books resting beside a tiny potted plant. I picked up the books and began flipping through them, hoping to find something meaningful. That's when I froze, my eyes landing on a title that made me pause. Love - by Toni Morrison.

Please note, I have never read that book. After doing a quick search, this book by Toni Morrison, is about a group of women whose feelings for a man shape their lives and relationships, showing how love can be both good and bad. While I had no prior knowledge about this book, knowing nothing of what lies within it, I thought it was ironic to find this sort of book for this particular assignment. I picked up the book and walked back to my desk.
When my professor approached me, she asked, "Chloe, what is your item and what is the significance behind it?"

I began to explain, "I found love, not just the book, but the concept of love itself. In a place where most people hate the most, there is still love to be found. It's like a balance, like a yin and yang. There is love in the hate and there could be hate in love too. It's possible! Finding love in school, a place many people dread, felt unexpected, yet it proved that love can exist anywhere. This is proof that love is in every corner of our lives, whether we expect it or not."

It may sound silly, but this assignment made me reflect on my everyday life. All of the 'bad' things that happened to me led me to this moment; to this realization. My life is pretty great, I have a roof over my head, clothes to wear, food on my table every night, I am getting an education, and I have family and friends who love me. What else could I possibly need? Those are some things people often overlook, so it can be seen as an 'unexpected' type of love. Love truly is everywhere. The grandest acts of love could be from the smallest gestures as well. For example, when someone holds a door open for you, or when you see someone giving food to a homeless person, or even when others compliment people.

At East Side, students face many obstacles and try to get ready for whatever this unsupportive world may throw at them, but finding love, even in a symbolic way, shows us the non-stop beauty that exists among us at East Side.

These are from my personal views, but I'm sure everyone could relate to feeling a warm feeling after seeing those kinds of things happening. Something that most people can relate to too would be when things seem to be going wrong. You just need to have some patience. Love, like life, is a balance; sometimes it's hidden in places we don't expect, and patience is key to seeing it. If things don't seem alright right now, just wait. Better things are sure to come your way. In matters of struggle and darkness, love exists and always has its time to shine – if you choose to see it.

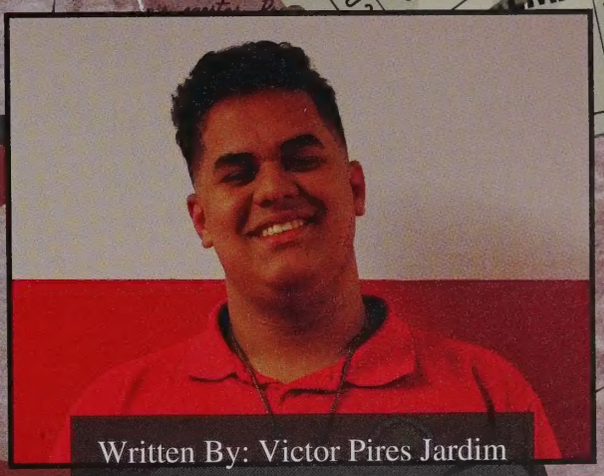
Should students have more input in designing their curriculum?



Written By: Victor Pires Jardim

For years, both students and teachers have complained about the school curriculum, saying how they are outdated, uninteresting, teaching things which are irrelevant to most students and many, many more complaints; Complaints which have mostly remained unanswered. So how could the curriculum be improved, you ask. Very simple, let both teachers and students have more input on what they are teaching and being taught.

The benefits of allowing teachers and students both help in designing the curriculum would be unmatched, as it would allow students to explain what they would want to learn in school, within reason of course, and it would allow teachers to teach things which they themselves believed would benefit students, rather than forcing them to learn things that even the teachers find outdated.

But would this even work? And if it did, who would make those decisions? As for the teachers, all of them should have an input, since they are all adults who have been teaching for years, some even decades, giving them the knowledge necessary in order to make said decisions. As for the students, however, the waters get a little murky. On one hand, every student should have an input, since they are all learning that which is being put in the curriculum, on the other hand, many students either do not care or would input their ideas with malicious intent. The solution to said issue would be to only students who are part of some type of body within the school should be allowed to participate, these students would be part of Student Council, National Honor Society, Mathematic Honor Society, etc., students which not only put in the effort for school, but are also recognized for their effort within the school.

This would solve the problem of students with malicious intent infiltrating the curriculum, and it would also allow students which, on their majority, deeply care about their school, their education, and their fellow students, pushing forward topics, etc. Students who put in effort to the school should have a say in the school curriculum.

Why did the Star Ledger go fully digital?

The Star Ledger, known as New Jersey's largest and influential newspaper, went fully digital in February 2025. Although the newspaper ceased print publication and still continues to publish, many people seem to think it was a bad idea. Today I'll be talking about the early history, influence, and evolution of this newspaper as well as why people find this new idea a bit controversial. The Star Ledger was first issued in 1832 and known as the "The Newark Daily Advertiser" and it was one of the first newspapers in New Jersey. In 1917, the paper collaborated with several others, and ended up forming The Newark Star Eagle. After some time, in 1939 Samuel Irving, founder of the Advance Publications took in The Newark Ledger and merged it with The Newark Star-Eagle to later on create The Star Ledger. It was officially launched as The Star Ledger on September 3, 1939.

Over time, The Star Ledger became 'that' newspaper in New Jersey. It covered state and local news, politics, crime, business, and sports. It gained national recognition over the years for its investigative journalism and news coverage of the stuff that took place in New Jersey. During the 1990s-2000s, it had a daily circulation of over 500,000 copies. Like many newspapers though, it started to face some challenges such as declining circulation in the digital era. It's said that the company offered employee buyouts back in 2008 to cut costs, and then by the 2010's print circulation had significantly dropped by a lot. Due to this the paper shifted its focus more towards online platforms like NJ.com, while still maintaining a print edition until February 2025 when it turned digital. But even then, the Star Ledger remains as an important source of news for the state of NJ while adapting to changes in the media and maintaining its reputation for journalism.

Written By: Giselle Jimenez

There has been many controversies whether or not moving digital was a smart move. Many think that it was a good move because it helped with financial stability, changing consumer habits, and it allows for faster and more dynamic reporting. Print circulation was declining and printing distribution costs were rising by a lot so switching digital was a better option since it reduced expenses and allowed for resources to be reallocated into the article. It was also a better option since more people consume news online especially through social media and going digital allowed for better modern news consumption trends.

Lastly, digital platforms allow for real-time updates, multimedia content, and better audience engagement. Although people think it was a good idea, there are many others who think it wasn't. The reason for this is because many longtime readers prefer the print format rather than reading it online so it might cause loss of traditional readers making them lose "viewers." Another reason for that may sound a little over exaggerated, but The Star Ledger had a very strong presence as a physical newspaper rather than a digital format. Going digital changes its identity and could reduce its influence among older demographics. But from a business standpoint, this was a necessary change. It allows for news to stay relevant and financially viable.

Dear Students, Teachers, and Staff,

The 2025 Yearbook Staff wants to take a moment to thank each and every one of you for making this year so special. Through every challenge and every unforgettable moment, we've captured a piece of history within these pages. Memories that will last a lifetime.

To the Class of 2025, this is it. The end of one journey and the beginning of so many more. As you move forward into new adventures, we hope you look back on these memories with pride, laughter, and maybe even a little nostalgia. No matter where life takes you, these moments will always be a part of your story.

To our teachers and staff, thank you for your support, and guidance. Your impact reaches far beyond the classroom, and we are forever grateful for the lessons—both academic and personal—that you've shared with us.

And to everyone who purchased this yearbook, we hope you enjoy flipping through its pages for years to come. May it remind you of the friendships, experiences, and moments that made this year unforgettable.

With appreciation,
The 2025 Yearbook Staff

October 28 2022

Ricardo Barbosa was born at Columbus Hospital in Newark, NJ. After attending St. Francis Xavier School in Newark, he earned his Bachelor of Science in Psychology from William Paterson University. In July 2016, Ricardo graduated from the 122nd Newark Police Recruitment Class 1648 at the Passaic County Police Academy. He served as a member of the Newark Police Department's 3rd Precinct, fulfilling his role as the Community and School Resource Officer for the greater Ironbound. During his career, Officer Barbosa worked extensively with the Newark Boys and Girls Club of the Ironbound, engaging in his interests such as baseball, karate, and chess. He was passionate about assisting at-risk youth, feeding the homeless, and enhancing Newark through community-based events. On October 30, 2020, Ricardo married Shelby Ley (Diaz). Tragically, on October 28, 2022, Officer Barbosa passed away.

Councilman Michael Silva generously sponsors an annual scholarship in loving memory of Officer Barbosa. The officer's legacy of dedication and service to our community will never be forgotten.
